

Business Sustainability Reporting

You might ask, well what is a business sustainability reporting? Is it some aliens from out space? You might also wonder how a sustainability report can save your energy and time and most directly, your money.

You might have heard the saying before: business sustainability reporting is not longer some proper nouns of the beau monde, instead, to be outstanding in the modern society of sustainable development, you got to be sustainable. The question is where the start-point of the journey is toward this aspiration.

Ecovane understands the anxieties of the business toward win-win solution of business success and sustainability. Relying on the seamless cooperation between the business and Ecovane, we believe sustainability reporting will become an efficient and effective tool for the companies to shape itself toward sustainable development.

Approaches of Business Sustainability Reporting

Ecovane provide a one-stop business sustainability reporting service, from selection of reporting contents, establishment of internal reporting capacities, collection of data and materials for reporting, compilation and revision on the report and the binding of the reports. Besides, Ecovane can also provide assistance to business during the various stages of reporting, e.g. provide training to internal employees on sustainability reporting to enhance internal reporting capability and etc.

Example of service provided for determination of reporting contents:

To ensure a balanced and reasonable presentation of the organization's performance, Ecovane will help the business owners to make determination about what content the report should cover. This determination will be made by considering both the organization's purpose and experience, and the reasonable expectations and interests of the organization's stakeholders. Both are important reference points when deciding what to include in the report.
